DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of species 1 in the reply filed on 12/14/05 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that no serious burden is present in examining the small number of claims. This is not found persuasive because different species requires different search no matter with a small or large number of the claims.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 2, 6, 8, 10, 17, 18, 26 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mill et al (US. 2003/0030034037) in view Matsumoto et al. (US 2001/0052920).

With respect to claims 1, 2, 6, 8, 10, 17, 18, 24 and 26, Mill et al discloses an ink jet recording apparatus comprising:

- a serial type recording head which has a plurality of ink jet openings for jetting photo-curable ink toward a recording medium, the ink jet openings being arranged in one or more lines (Fig.8A, 9A: element K, Y, M, C); and
- an irradiation section which is provided adjacent to the recording head in a scanning direction of the recording head, for irradiating an ink jetted on the recording medium with light, the irradiation section having a plurality of irradiation elements (Fig.8A; element 100-1, 100-2) which correspond to the ink jet openings, respectively, and which are arranged in one or more lines in approximately parallel with an arrangement direction of the plurality of ink jet openings (K, Y, M, C), the irradiation element irradiates the ink jetted on the recording medium with light as an approximately parallel pencil.
- the irradiation section further comprises a lens (Fig.14B: element 1016) for approximately equalizing a size of an irradiated portion of the recording medium with a size of a dot formed by the ink on the recording medium, by refracting light radiated from the irradiation element.
- the irradiation section further comprises a lens (Fig.14B)1016) for approximately equalizing a diameter of an irradiated portion of the recording medium in the arrangement direction with a dot diameter formed by the ink on the recording medium by refracting light radiated from the irradiation element.

However, Mill fails to teach controlling the irradiation elements to light at least an irradiation element which corresponds to an ink jet opening and changing an amount of irradiating light to the recording medium which corresponds to the ink jet opening depending upon an amount of the ink jetted by the ink jet opening.

Matsumoto teaches controlling the irradiation elements to light at least an irradiation element which corresponds to an ink jet opening, and changing an amount of irradiating light to the recording medium which corresponds to the ink jet opening depending upon an amount of the ink jetted by the ink jet opening (Column 8: [0106])

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to control the amount of irradiation light as taught to Matsumoto. The motivation of doing is to dry the ink with high precision without irregularity.
